

a break-down in communication can be a good thing if the spoken word is a lie that keeps truth paralysed an interval in the babble of bullshit opens up a space where something fresh can flourish, without dominance potential may blossom